Angry Japs Rock British Consulate

TOKYO PAPERS, ATTACK LONDON, UNITED STATES

Movement Of Uncle Sam's Fleet, Naval Expansion Program Protested

TOKYO, Jan. 25—Windows of the British consulate were smashed by members of a Japanese patriotic society today as indignation mounted over the removal by a British cruiser of 21 German seamen from the Japanese liner Asama Maru.

A deputation representing the Japanese Tohoku patriotic organization called at the consulate and presented an anti-British resolution. As they left, the members of the deputation vented their ire on the building's windows.

The incident occurred as Japanese newspapers bitterly criticized Great Britain and the United States, charging that the Asama Maru incident occurred only because London was convinced of American support.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Recent movements of American fleet units in Hawaiian waters and United States naval expansion plans in Washington have drawn sharp criticism from Japanese sources.)

Threat Voiced

"If Britain and the United States," Asahi continued, "have swallowed the propaganda that Japan is economically laid prostrate, and if they take to provoking Japan, both soon will realize that wrong recoils on itself."

PARENTS OF SLIDERS ASKED TO DISCOURAGE CAR-HITCHING PRACTICE

Police Chief William McCrady issued a warning Thursday that motorists will not be held responsible for injury suffered by children who attach their sleds to the back of automobiles. However, drivers who knowingly haul sleds behind their vehicles will share in the responsibility of any casualties sustained. Parents are asked to discourage the practice among their children.

Deutschland Back Home After Long Sea Activity

BERLIN, Jan. 25—The striking power of the German navy will shortly be considerably increased, it was disclosed today as the famous German pocket battleship Deutschland returned to its home base after conducting "trade warfare" in the Atlantic since outbreak of the European war.

Announcement of the return of the Deutschland was accompanied by official revelation that it will be renamed the Luetzow and that the name Deutschland will be conferred on a larger vessel.

FINN STEAMER PLANE VICTIM

Red Planes Sink Craft And Fire At Crew; Other Ships Lost, Tossed About

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 25—Soviet planes bombed and sank the 1,133-ton Finnish steamer Notung off the Aaland Islands and then machine-gunned the crew without causing any casualties, according to reports received in Copenhagen today.

A Reuters (British) new agency dispatch from Helsinki said Soviet planes also bombed an unnamed German merchant ship aground off the Aaland Islands.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 25—The Norwegian steamer, Biarritz, a vessel of 1,752 tons, was mined northwest of Ymuiden today. The Norwegian vessel Borgholm picked up members of the crew, some of whom were injured.

REDS TO CARRY ON FINNISH WAR TO BITTER END

Soviet Drive North Of Lake Ladoga Indicates Stalin's Hopes For Success

HELSINKI, Jan. 25—Reports from Russia that Dictator Josef Stalin intends to carry out the war against Finland to the bitter end and regardless of the cost seemed partly confirmed today by latest reports from the front and especially by resumption of the Soviet drive north of Lake Ladoga.

In that area the Russians unleashed a double-pronged offensive but the Finnish command claimed that it had been repulsed with heavy losses. On that front and before the Mannerheim Line on the Carelian Isthmus, it was claimed, the Russians have lost thousands of dead.

Infantry and large and small tanks, aided by artillery, were thrown into the campaign above the big lake, where the terrain is more favorable to mechanized forces than on the Carelian Isthmus. Soviet airplanes, in a raid on Kuomo, south of Suomussalmi, wounded 30 persons, 18 of them gravely.

Propaganda Dropped

Other villages near Oulo Lake were machine-gunned and telephone wires were broken by bombs. Otherwise damage was slight. Propaganda leaflets also were dropped.

Military authorities in Helsinki said that after the Russians failed to break through the Mannerheim Line or to cut Finland in two, they made their next major attempt on (Continued on Page Four)

MINE UNION HITS INQUIRY BY DIES, ASKS ITS CLOSE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 25—Caustically criticizing the Dies committee, the United Mine Workers of America today adopted a resolution urging discontinuance of the committee created by congress to investigate alleged un-American activities.

The resolution, a combination of a series attacking the Dies committee, was adopted by a viva voce vote. It urged that funds allocated to Congressman Dies' group be turned over to the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee.

House Gives Dies $75,000 for Probe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—The house today unanimously voted $75,000 to finance the new investigation by the Dies un-American activities committee and requested governmental departments to furnish legal aid and investigators to the committee.

The $75,000 appropriation, $25,000 less than the group had available in the last year was recommended by the accounts committee.

JOSEPH TRACY TO ENTER AUDITOR'S RACE AGAIN

COLUMBUS, Jan. 25—Joseph T. Tracy, for 16 years state auditor before being defeated in the last election by Joseph Ferguson, a Democrat, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office he formerly held.

Tracy, who lives in Columbus, obtained nominating petitions from the secretary of state. Also in the race for the GOP nomination for state auditor is Harold F. Fross, Springfield. Fross is Clark County auditor.

JACOB BOWSHER JUSTICE OFFICE IS DEAD AT 99 AFTER 'BIGWIGS'

Native And Lifelong Resident Of Adelphi Community In Hundredth Year Powers Behind Subversive Organizations Sought By U. S. Department

Jacob L. Bowsheer, patriarch of the Adelphi community where he spent all 99 years of his life, died quietly at 1:30 a. m. Thursday, infirmities of age causing death. Mr. Bowsheer, who lived in Colerain Township, Ross County, just across the Pickaway-Ross line, and a mile west of Adelphi, never removed from the farm on which he was born of pioneer parents.

Had he lived until next December 7 he would have been 100 years of age.

Surviving are 10 children, Jacob of Colerain Township, Edson of Circleville, Francis of Adelphi, James at home, Amos near Adelphi, Mrs. Bertha Delong of near Laurelville, Mrs. Edna Strous, Mrs. Louella Pontius and Mrs. May Armstrong of near Adelphi, and Miss Florence, at home. There are 19 grandchildren and 31 great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be Saturday at 2 p. m. at the home, services to be private. Friends may call at the home until the hour of the service. Burial will be in Green Summit Cemetery, Adelphi, by H. E. Deffenbaugh and Son.

RED BULL THAT WASN'T THERE, EMERGES FROM HAVEN IN STRAW STACK

You've heard the story about the little man who wasn't there, and here's the story of the little bull that wasn't there, but was really there all the time.

Clarence McAbee reported to Sheriff Charles Radcliff that a 600 pound, shorthorned, red bull had been stolen from his farm on Route 2. The sheriff checked the livestock sales to see if the missing bull could be found. The day passed and still no bull.

Thursday morning the sheriff's office was notified by McAbee to call off the hunt. The recalcitrant shorthorn had been found.

He had played Little Boy Blue and remained in the straw stack all day. All potential threats of cattle rustling may now be laid to rest.

NEW BOOK CASES BEING PROVIDED AT COURT HOUSE

There is a lot of law over at the Court House and it's all on paper in black and white between the covers of books waiting to prove or disprove some attorney's contentions.

Part of it is in the court room proper, but the greater part is in the little law library tucked away on the second floor of the northeast corner of the building.

Most of the books are kept in bookcases, but there is an overflow and many have been left lying about on tables. Thirteen new cases are being put to work to house the homeless volumes. They arrived at the Court House Thursday and will be put into service before the week is out.

LONDON—The target of many anti-aircraft guns, a plane believed to be German flew over the Thames estuary this afternoon at a great height. It escaped however. No air raid warning was sounded in London.

THE HAGUE—Holland is determined to remain neutral in Europe's war, but will take up arms against any invasion, regardless of which side it comes from, Foreign Minister E. N. Van Kleffens told parliament today.

NEW YORK—Another $100,000 forwarded by the Chicago committee was added today to the Finnish relief fund being raised under the direction of former President Herbert Hoover.

LONDON—The London Daily Express reported from Budapest today that the former free city of Danzig and the former Polish port of Gdynia have been converted into German naval bases. Large numbers of Reich troops have arrived in Danzig during the last few days, the paper said, and the town is like an armed camp.

LONDON—Great Britain called more men into army service today with publication of an official decree instructing all men of the age group from 20 to 23 to register on February 17 preliminary to actual mobilization. The decree affects all men born between January 1, 1916 and December 31, 1919.

LONDON—Belgian police have begun a round-up of members of the outlawed nationalist Rexist organization in connection with an alleged pro-German spy ring. It was reported in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Brussels today.

WINTER CROP HIT

1,000 Cattle Victims In Kissimmee River Valley

By International News Service
The nation's most widespread cold wave of the winter took a frigid toll of the deep South, today, bringing freezing temperatures to the Carolinas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia and Alabama.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., the mercury dipped to one above zero in the early hours for the coldest reading in the area. Freezing weather also was reported, however, at Charleston, S. C., and Savannah, Ga., each with 26 above; at Biloxi, Miss., with 22; at Mobile, Ala., with 23, and at New Orleans, La., with 23.

Sub-zero weather gripped most of the North, with temperatures ranging from near zero to -14 between the two coasts. The middle section of the country escaped the full force of the arctic blasts, but temperatures generally were below freezing.

The South suffered most from the unprecedented cold. Even on Florida's lower peninsula the wave made itself felt. At Miami, where 60 degrees or more is normal, the temperature hovered in the 30's after sinking to four degrees above freezing shortly after midnight. At Key West a low of 49 degrees was unusual.

Stock, Crop Losses High

Cattle and crop losses from the cold were reported throughout the Southland. In the Kissimmee River valley in Florida, more than 1,000 head of cattle were said to have died. Citrus growers kept large fires burning in their orchards to hold damage to a minimum.

Winter vegetable crops in South Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Florida were feared to have been heavily damaged.

At the same time, the South-east still was keeping emergency crews busy clearing streets and highways of the record-breaking snowfall of Tuesday. Transportation was not yet back to normal everywhere. Most schools in northern Georgia remained closed.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 25—Congressman Clarence J. Brown, Manchester, Republican candidate for governor a few years ago, will be a candidate for re-election from the Seventh congressional district, he announced today.

51 SUBPOENAS ISSUED FOR PROBE BY GRAND JURORS

Fifty-one subpoenas have been issued by Sheriff Charles Radcliff for witnesses to appear before the Grand Jury which will meet Monday, January 29.

The evidence in 19 cases will be presented to the jury by Prosecuting Attorney George Gerhardt and indictments will be asked. The jury session is expected to last until Wednesday after which cases will be heard in the Common Pleas Court by Judge Meeker Terwilliger.

MERCURY FALLS TO ZERO THIRD TIME IN MONTH

Weather Observers Believe Frigid Weather Will Stay Remainder Of Week

The third cold wave of the month struck Circleville with full force Thursday, sending the mercury down to the zero mark.

Weather forecasters predicted the cold wave, which came hard on the heels of a 20-mile-an-hour west wind, would stay until Saturday. Snow flurries were forecast for the north portion of the state with continued cold tonight.

Snow drifts that covered Norfolk & Western rights-of-way in Virginia caused the 4:30 p. m. west-bound passenger through Circleville to be more than four hours late Wednesday afternoon. Rail officials said the same train would run about an hour behind time Thursday.

Deep snow kept the Washington Township school closed Thursday as the school buses were not able to get through the deep drifts that piled up in the hilly country. The closing kept 195 pupils at home.

Dayton and Cincinnati also reported zero readings this morning. At Columbus, it was one above; at East Liverpool and Cambridge, seven above; and at Akron, Cleveland and Toledo, five above.

The state highway department reported snow was drifting over (Continued on Page Four)

YOUNG'S ARREST BY JAPS LINKED WITH ARTICLES

TOKYO, Jan. 25—The Tokyo press displayed keen interest today in the arrest of James R. Young, far eastern manager of International News Service, who has been detained since Sunday on undisclosed charges.

While representatives of the United States embassy continued their attempts to obtain Young's release the Tokyo newspaper "Shimbu No Shimbu" (Journal of Journals) indicated that the arrest was linked up with the correspondent's recent lengthy tour of China.

Statements made by Young to a group of fifty Japanese businessmen on his return and in dispatches cabled to the United States on the alleged inefficiency of the Japanese army in China were responsible for his detention, the newspaper said.

"Expression of such views might have led to the arrest," Shimbu No Shimbu declared.

"Such views would appear to be inadmissible, even if held by a foreigner."

The foreign editors of the Tokyo newspapers Hochi and Yomiuri Shimbu also are undergoing interrogation, the paper declared, "because of their close relations and the fact that Young filed dispatches to them from Chungking, the new capital of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek."

Finn Populace Unafraid of Bomb Attacks

By Courtenay Terrett
HELSINKI, Jan. 25—There is fighting on four fronts in Finland today—hard, tough-man-to-man fighting.

But this is the story of the fifth front—the cities, towns, villages and arms where war is only one-sided, where there is no chance of fighting back.

The joint purpose of this warfare is destruction and demoralization, and it is incessant. Flights of 200 Russian bombing planes three or four times daily are common and people sometimes have to pass hours of each day underground.

The first objective of the attackers has been fairly successful. There has been great material damage and some places have been almost "bombed out," although curiously enough there has been little dislocation of essential services and manufactures.

But in their second objective, the Russians have been a complete failure.

Bombing only hardens the Finnish morale and the defenseless civilian population—many persons living in forests in the daytime and in households only during the night—is carrying on in cold fury, fighting fires, repairing the damage wrought, manufacturing and unloading, distributing and forwarding the material that flows into the country daily.

Five Alarms in 13 Hours
Between 8 a. m. and 9 p. m. the day before yesterday I went through five air raid alarms in as many different places.

Conditions varied widely, but the same extraordinary discipline prevailed throughout.

Leaving Ekenas at 8 a. m., which is daybreak in Finland, and chauffeured by K. G. Granberg, general sales manager of the Chrysler Corporation and one of Finland's best known automobile racers who is now mobilized, I soon arrived in the town of Salo, which normally has a population of 8,000.

The only living sights were one forlorn dog and a traffic policeman—who held up his hand as our car hove into view. Granberg wanted to push on but the policeman refused to allow us, maintaining that moving objects would alert the bombers overhead.

Suddenly the air raid siren screamed and into the deserted (Continued on Page Four)

YOUTHFUL DEMS TO STAY CLEAR OF CONTROVERSY

James Dunton, Official Of State Office, Expects No Indorsements

500 DELEGATES TO COME

Election Of Officers And Address By National Officer Booked

COLUMBUS, Jan. 25—Young Democrats convening in their biennial convention in Columbus Friday will sidestep suggestions that they attempt to mend differences existing in the senior Democratic organization in Ohio, it was learned today.

"The purpose of the Young Democrats in the pending campaigns will be only to act as a connecting link between all factions," said James Dunton, of Circleville, an attache at Democratic State headquarters.

Certain persons felt that the Young Democrats, by offering an outright indorsement of one candidate for governor, might start the ball rolling toward complete harmony within the ranks when the older Democrats hold their state convention. But Dunton said the "youngsters" would concentrate on avoiding open discussion of "pertinent topics."

The only topic which might develop strife, Dunton said, was one in which the delegates must decide whether to officially recognize the two Young Democratic organizations existing in Cuyahoga County.

Factions Differ

One faction is headed by John Elder and is for men only, operating on what Dunton termed a "dictatorial basis." The other is the regular Young Democratic club for both men and women.

Dunton said, however, that it was his opinion that "Cuyahoga County was large enough for both organizations" if they would "play ball" with each other and not engage in quarrels which might endanger party harmony when and if that harmony is restored completely.

Approximately 500 delegates were expected for the two day convocation, although lack of housing accommodations because of other conventions might cut that number in half. One of the more important matters on the business docket was election of officers.

Leading candidates for the president's job to succeed Oscar Loyer, of Findlay, were James Bolan, Toledo, and Ralph Groves, Steubenville, vice president of the state organization. Bolan is president of the Lucas County Young Democratic club.

Illinois Man Speaks

Chief Speaker will be Homer Matt Adams, Illinois, president of the National Young Democratic organization. There was a possibility, it was learned, that Adams, in one way or another, might sound off on national political topics, thus offering some indication of what is in the wind in the party nationally.

"Why The Hullabaloo?" Asks Another Socialite Who Strives For Career

Julia Brown Colt asks: "Why all the hullabaloo about society girls working?"

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25—Once again this city of strange myths and glamor has lured a youthful beauty from the ranks of eastern society.

Latest to leave that kind of society usually spelled with a capital "S" is Julie Brown Colt, whose name often has appeared on top flight guest lists in Washington, D. C., New York and Philadelphia.

That she is out here for something of a prolonged stay is seen in several facts, chief of which, perhaps, is that she brought with her from her Washington home the four horses she most highly prizes. "I could do without many things—but certainly not without my horses," she explains, hardly realizing that her words reflect her interest in sports is about as great as that in a potential career as a singing actress.

Then, in that sultry voice which some day may greet her host of friends from the medium of a silver screen, she switches back to the core of the interview:

Why All The Fuss?

"Why all the hullabaloo about society girls working? I see no reason for it; more than that, I accept none.

"Isn't it just as important that we endeavor to achieve our desires, fulfill our ambitions, as if we were unrelated to so-called 'blue-bloods'?"

At this point, she turns to Guido Orlando, known just as widely in New York as out here, and the man who has steered Julie into Hollywood's inner circles. Looking directly at him, she continues: "Oh, just a fling?" someone asked of me when I mentioned I had always been interested in singing and acting—and intended to do something about it.

"There, in those four words, is the thing we have to face. People thinking we can't be serious. But it's ridiculous. Why, just look at the others."

Here she stopped, leaned back on the divan, ran slender hands through the silky, dazzling mass which prompted for her the sobriquet, "honey-haired beauty."

Others With Ambitions

The "others." Who are they? Geraldine Spreckles, by virtue of attainment, must lead the list. Cobina Wright, Jr., Adelaide Moffet, Virginia Uppercu of the wealthy automobile manufacturing family of Rumson, N. J.; Lois Elliman of Scarsdale and New York, N. Y.; Cela Leo, Gay Adams, Marjory Logan and Marianne Davis.

These were some of the socialites who braved the taunts of some of their social strata when they sought careers either in night clubs in the cinema or over the air lanes.

"If they can do it, then so can I," said the charming Colt girl who, at 23, has behind her one marriage that "went wrong in 1938."

As if being the daughter of Philip Marshall Brown, noted Washington attorney and authority on international law, was not enough, she married Samuel Gil-

PETTENGILL "The Gentleman from Indiana"

HIS MASTER'S VOICE?

Secretary Edison's bid for totalitarian power has gone in the waste-basket for the time being. Even New Dealers sensed that it was too raw. Senator Minton, whose earliest and perhaps chief claim to fame is "you can't eat the Constitution," could see Hoosier citizens gag over it in a year when he has to ask for their votes. So the Senator rushed to rescue the Constitution from a secretary who can't eat it but would destroy it. And Senator Borah, whose steady resistance to arbitrary power will leave a bright page in the record of these troubled times, tore Mr. Edison's proposal to shreds.

But was it Mr. Edison's proposal? Is he just an amateur-bunger, a constitutional illiterate? It is possible. Many things are possible today. It is possible that no one but Mr. Edison ever laid eyes on his request to be the Hitler of the Potomac. But is it probable? Here he was. His name had just been sent to the Senate to be Secretary of the Navy. It was awaiting confirmation. At that critical moment in his career, as his very first official act as Secretary-designate, he asks Congress to give the President no less power over American industry than Hitler today exercises in Germany. Would he have done this on his own?

Mr. Edison spent four years at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. From this I deduce that he can read and write. So it is difficult to believe that he did not know what he was asking. Nor that several of his subordinates did not also know what was in his letter to Speaker Bankhead. So far, so good.

The next question is whether he kept his stupendous program a deep secret from the gentleman in the White House who had just nominated him to be a member of his cabinet. Well, there are only two alternatives on that. President Roosevelt either knew about it or he didn't know about it. If he didn't know about it, it would seem that he would waste no time in withdrawing the nomination.

But she had left this thought with her interviewer; she will probably keep plugging along for success in her career even if it means the eventual cutting of all ties linking her to Society.

tion of a man who had proven himself to be at least a dunce, if not, in fact, a beetle-headed ninnyhammer. If the President did know about it, then the country ought to know that he knew. If Mr. Edison was repeating his master's voice then that fact becomes pertinent to the third term disease which afflicts the nation today.

I now turn Mr. Edison over to Senator Borah. The Secretary's proposal, he said, "if enacted, would confer power, or seek to confer power, to seize and confiscate property, such as factories, ships, and other materials, to cancel or modify contracts and agreements, and to interfere with the personal rights of the citizen and his personal liberty—all this to be done in time of peace before a declaration of war upon the part of this Government. . . .

"If we can do what is provided in this bill because of an emergency, unless that emergency is one which brings the Congress within the war powers of the Government or the terms of the Constitution, then we could also provide, in case of an emergency, for the suspension of the Bill of Rights. We could prohibit free speech, free press, and the right of trial by jury. . . . It tends to show how far we have traveled, or are traveling, in the exercise of purely arbitrary powers. . . .

"Such legislation as now proposed and the seizure of every opportunity to discredit democracy and democratic processes, hastening at all times to advertise the efficiency and the necessity of arbitrary powers, are discrediting democratic principles. . . . Under the cry of emergency we strike down the rights of the citizen and thus advertise to the world again and again that democracy cannot cope with modern exigencies as against the competition of centralized power. With marvelous magnificence the little democracy of Finland has demonstrated to the world the falsity of this cowardly lie. . . .

"Measures introduced and urged which are in themselves impeachments of the whole scheme of democracy do infinitely more harm than a thousand Communists chattering on the street corners. . . . So long as the Bill of Rights stands and is preserved in its integrity, so long as we live up to its terms and conditions, there can be no denial of free speech, of free press, no religious persecution, no arbitrary government, no concentration camps, no breaking into homes, no unlawful arrests, no denial of personal liberty. . . . When so-called emergency legislation strikes at this sacred document in any particular it should be stricken down without hesitancy. . . . If human liberty is sacred, this document is sacred."

And here endeth an essay on the love of power "and appetite, an universal wolf" whose "will still wills it should none spare that come within his power."

SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL.

11,782 BUSHEL OF CORN PLACED UNDER AAA LOAN

Farmers of Pickaway County have put 11,782 bushels of their 1939 corn crop under AAA loan since December 30, 1939, when the first loan on 1939 corn was made.

Dewey Downs, member of the County Agricultural Conservation Committee in charge of commodity loans, said that the progress of the 1939-40 corn loan program, now in full swing, indicates that the amount of corn which will be placed under seal in Pickaway County will be about equal to the amount sealed under the 1938-39 loan program. Pickaway County AAA cooperators sealed 30,633 bushels of 1938 corn.

Loans on 1939 corn will be available until March 31 at the rate of 57 cents per bushel in the commercial corn area and 43 cents in the non-commercial area. Pickaway County farmers are eligible for the 57-cent rate. The loans will be due August 1, 1940.

Mr. Downs pointed out that the three percent interest rate, which is one percent lower than the rate on 1938 corn, will bring a considerable saving to farmers.

The simplified method for taking out corn loans by which a farmer may sign his note and chattel mortgage and obtain his insurance certificate in but one trip to the county office has materially speeded up the work of making loans, Mr. Downs said.

DEFENDS BINGO

NEW YORK—Releasing three alleged bingo-addicts, a Queens County judge sharply criticized the "stupidity and hypocrisy" of the state laws against "innocent gambling." How was it possible, asked Judge Thomas Downs, "that twelve men and women drawn by lot and chance themselves, shall determine whether or not these three defendants shall be stigmatized the rest of their lives as criminals because they participated in a game of bingo?"

What do you read BETWEEN THE LINES?

Between the lines of every advertisement you see, you can imagine these words:

"Thousands of people had to believe in this product—and buy it—before it was ready for advertising!"

The fact that a product is advertised regularly means that a lot of people buy it regularly. The fact that a storekeeper or manufacturer will join his name with it in public proves that he thinks it is good, honest value.

Time was when the slogan, "Let the buyer beware," governed buying and selling. But advertising has reversed that. Today it reads, "Let the seller beware!"

For if his goods don't measure up, he loses out to advertised products that do!

BRICKER FLAYS F. D.'S VETO OF SECURITY FUND

State Suffers Because Of President's "Show Of Political Power"

JENKINS BILL REFUSED

Virginian Declares State Has Self To Blame For Losing $1,300,000

COLUMBUS, Jan. 25—The state treasury was $1,300,000 poorer today because, Governor Bricker asserted, President Roosevelt "has only a selfish desire to exercise political power."

The Republican governor made the charge after he learned that Roosevelt had vetoed the Jenkins bill that would have given that amount to Ohio in withheld Old Age pension funds.

Bricker contended that "no bureaucratic authority at Washington should have the power to punish a sovereign state to satisfy a political prejudice."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—The state of Ohio today had apparently lost its fight for repayment from the federal government of the $1,338,000 it spent for Old Age Security during October, 1938.

Although the house refused to override a presidential veto of a bill for the repayment, some members of Ohio's congressional delegation still hoped today to work out some kind of a settlement.

In the roll call there were 171 votes to override the veto and 153 votes to sustain it. Since it failed to get the required two-thirds majority, the bill was returned to the judiciary committee where it presumably will die.

During the month in question, the Social Security board contended the state had not adhered to its requirements and refused to pay the federal share of old age pensions. The state made up the payments, and the bill, by Rep. Jenkins (R) Ohio, would have provided for repayment by the federal government.

In debate on the proposal to override the veto, Jenkins charged those who voted to sustain it were "hiding behind their fear of the President."

Rep. Woodrum (D) Virginia, leader of the other side, contended that "no one is to blame for this but Ohio herself."

DR. G. J. TROUTMAN HELPS DEDICATE KIN'S CHURCH

The Rev. Dr. G. J. Troutman, senior pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, participated last Sunday in dedication rites at the new Miami, Fla., Lutheran Church of which his son-in-law, the Rev. George Schuster is pastor. The Rev. Mr. Schuster's wife is the former Evangeline Troutman.

Dr. Troutman is vacationing this winter in the South.

Dr. C. G. Wolf of Baltimore, Md., delivered the dedicatory sermon entitled "The Church That Ought to Be" and Dr. Troutman spoke during evening services on "Lord, It Is Good to Be Here."

The church was organized four years ago under the name of Mt. Zion Lutheran Church. The congregation formerly worshiped in a remodeled roller-skating rink.

The Rev. Mr. Schuster went to Miami last September 1 to accept the pastorate.

The new church is of gray stone, inside and out, with a cathedral ceiling and high leaded art glass windows which bring light to the ancient Gothic inspirations of reaching toward Heaven.

Approximate cost of the structure and the ground was $18,700.

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, January 25 WHILE this may be a day of excellent promise, with major interests moving at high pressure, there also are signs of sudden disruptions and upsets of devastating force. The outcome will depend upon the restraint, sagacity and acumen brought to bear on critical situations in which high objectives and interests are at stake. Through carelessness, impetuosity and overenthusiasm there might be sharp reversals, with domestic reactions.

Those whose birthday it is, although promised a year of excellent opportunity for high attainments and fulfilled ambitions, are also likely to defeat such favorable auguries by rash, over-zealous or

Ashville's Big Institute Success On Opening Day

By S. D. Fridley, Ashville Phone 79

The local Farmers' Institute officials and the committee in charge have every reason to congratulate themselves on the success the institute was Wednesday. The morning session had the usual first day attendance and the program was followed as planned, interesting and entertaining. The state speakers, Mrs. Young and Mr. Lasher, are both instructors and entertainers and kept their audience awake. The Lutheran church ladies with their chicken dinner were well pleased with the patronage they received. Today is another busy one with the Amateur Show tonight as the high point feature. There are many contest entries.

Ashville Beginning with Sunday revival services will be held at the United Brethren Church, Rev. Smith, the pastor, will be assisted by Rev. D. S. Mills of the Avondale church of Columbus. Rev. Mills is well known here being a former pastor and his voice both in speech and song is frequently heard over the radio. The public is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

Ashville Ralph Cloud has sold his dwelling property on Powell street and now occupied by Clarence Cloud and wife to Walter Kraft and wife who will occupy it sometime the coming spring. The man who does "much figuring" before the new dwellings get into actual construction told use he has already made plans and figures for five and said that if there is anything in signs this 1940 will be a better year than the one just past.

Ashville Sherman Hunt who was severely injured several weeks ago at a Columbus factory is able to be out again and hopes to get back to work within a short time. Mrs. Hal Reid-out of the going for a week by sickness is better. Charles Messick out of school and abed for a few days, is reported better.

FLAX REPLACES FLOWERS

LONDON, — Scores of acres of land at Sandringham, the Norfolk home of King George VI, are now under cultivation for flax. What were formerly the Queen's flower gardens at this estate are also under the plough for wheat and oats. By growing more flax, Britain will become more independent of foreign supplies.

BRITAIN SEEKS EARLY END OF INDIAN STRIFE

New Steps Being Taken To Solve Deadlock With Major Possession

THREE POINTS STUDIED

Hindu-Moslem Angle May Be
Most Difficult To End,
London Hears

LONDON, Jan. 25—Coincident with reports of further trouble brewing in India, the British government has taken new steps to solve the deadlock that is threatening to cut off all Indian military and economic support for the prosecution of the European war.

According to authoritative Whitehall quarters, the government is now ready to take a more conciliatory attitude towards the problem, and semi-official feelers indicate that Britain is willing to consider further constitutional advances if the Indian Congress is prepared to:

- 1—Reach agreement with the Moslems on Communal questions.
- 2—Abandon the demand for a constituent assembly and freedom, and declare Dominion Status as its aim.
- 3—Recognize defense of questions and matters of external affairs should be left in the hands of the British.

Will Concede Demands

High government quarters stated that if the Congress was willing to agree to the foregoing, Britain would bring about Dominion Status—which would leave agreement with the Princes as the only remaining obstacle to a Federal India.

Although Congress circles in London recognize the government move as a new approach to the deadlock, they nevertheless contend that the proposals still contain many obstacles preventing a solution of the problem.

Indian representatives in London told International News Service that their leaders were quite ready to accept Dominion Status if it entailed the formation of a government with the same freedom that is accorded Canada and Australia, but that they would not abandon the demand for a Constituent Assembly.

One of the hardest hurdles, it is stated, would be to settle the Hindu-Moslem gulf which has been widening daily. Congress leaders contend that Mohammed Ali Jinnah, in whose hands Moslem leadership rests, does not represent the entire Moslem opinion.

It is understood that the Congress is agreeable to allowing matters of external affairs and defense rest in the hands of the British.

Meanwhile reports reaching London indicate that trouble in India is rapidly moving closer to a showdown. Militant peasant and trade union organizations, which have recently become affiliated with the Congress group, are reportedly bringing pressure to bear on Mahatma Gandhi to take a "stronger" show of strength" attitude in dealing with the British government.

that Japan will not be satisfied with a mere legal reply from London to the Japanese protest regarding the Asama Maru incident.

The Japanese government, it said, is demanding to know exactly what steps the British government has taken to prevent recurrence of such incidents in view of having "caused such an unpleasant incident under Japan's nose."

Furthermore, Asahi stated, Japan will demand to know what British guarantee will be given for the future regarding Japanese merchant vessels carrying German mail not engaged in military service.

A Tokyo spokesman said the Japanese navy is prepared to prevent such incidents and expressed "hope" that Britain would fully reconsider its policy.

The spokesman reiterated the Japanese claim that the incident was a violation of international law and expressed regret that the British had taken action which he described as calculated to injure the prestige of the Japanese navy.

Sea Captain Quits

Meanwhile, the commander of the Asama Maru, Captain Watanabe, resigned from his post following newspaper criticism for "weakly yielding to the British" when the Germans were removed from his ship.

Naval authorities discussed action to be taken to aid two Japanese vessels, the La Plata Maru and the Ginyo Maru, which are now en route to Yokohama with many Germans aboard.

It was reported the navy decided to keep in close touch with these vessels until they reach port, and that possibly arrangements will be made to convoy them under protection of Japanese warships.

a mine and sank in the North Sea today. A Greek steamer rescued its crew of 18 members.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—Mackay radio today intercepted a message stating the 6,566-ton Greek steamer Andreas is having difficulties in heavy weather near Bermuda. The message gave the ship's position as 32°55 north 65°20 west and said two of its lifeboats were damaged, that it was making water in the cross bunker and listing to port.

"We do not want immediate assistance, but please have all ships keep a lookout for us," the message added.

BELGRADE, Jan. 25 — The Yugoslavian destroyer Ljubljana sank today after being hurled on the rocks in St. Anne's channel in the Port of Sibenik during a severe storm.

One crew member was listed as missing.

The Ljubljana was completed in 1938. A vessel of 1,210 tons, it was capable of a speed of 38 knots. It carried four 4.7-inch guns and smaller armament.

'AMERICA'S SWEETHEART'

MAY RETURN TO MOVIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—Mary Pickford, the star who in the early days of the movie won fame as "America's sweetheart," may return to the screen.

At least, she had revealed today, she is giving the idea serious consideration. Her last screen appearance was in 1933.

Mary said she is reorganizing her movie production company and plans to make two pictures for release during the current season.

MORE MEETING PLANS

The business session of the annual joint meeting of the Pickaway Farm Bureau and the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association will be held in the American Legion Room at Memorial Hall, Saturday February 3. A banquet is scheduled for the Methodist Church at 6:30 in the evening. Major Norman A. Imrie will address the banquet meeting.

BOYS ON PROBATION

Harley Smith, jr., 14, South Court Street, and Emmett Dade, 15, East Corwin Street, were released on probation Wednesday by Judge Lemuel Weldon following the hearing on the charges of petty larceny that had been filed against them. The boys, at the hearing in Juvenile Court, promised they would abide by the terms of their probation, report to the court, attend church and practice good behavior.

FINNS UNAFRAID OF BOMB ATTACK

streets poured children accompanied by schoolmistresses. They slipped and slid along the ice and pelted one another with snowballs until at length I asked one of the teachers whether they knew what the alarm was for.

"Yes, they do," she said. "But they don't worry about it. They've even invented a new form of blind man's buff to play in the air raid shelters."

From Salo we dashed on to Abo, often making 75 miles an hour on the straightaway and ploughing up clouds of snow as we skidded around corners. Right at a spot on the highway where three bombs had dropped a short while previously one of our tires picked up a shell fragment and Granberg changed it in record time to the accompaniment of profanity in Finnish and Swedish, while I chipped in old-fashioned Montana mule-skinner language.

Entering Abo, we were constantly redirected by police from streets where workmen were busy repairing damage. These people were like ants reconstructing a damaged ant-hill.

Repairs Are Immediate
A bomb will drop, digging a 20-foot deep crater in the middle of Main Street, but the moment the "all clear" whistle sounds, the people rush out to fill it up, repair broken water mains and re-string telephone and telegraph wires knocked down by the blast.

In the harbor of Abo, the moment some waiting ship is damaged, she is towed to the quayside, unloaded and her cargo distributed even as salvage gangs work on repairs.

But when the siren wails, there is only calm and complete discipline.

In all of Abo during an air raid alarm that lasted half an hour, the only living things I saw were policemen and pigeons nervously pacing the Central Square, while a manicurist skidded to shelter with a padded red leather chair in her arms. She had not heard the alarm when it sounded and hoped the police would not rebuke her for being late.

Instead, the policemen glanced at the sky and let the girl find her way to safety unmolested.

Hospital Viewed
At the Lutheran missionary hospital, stood Nils Wahren, formerly a pulp paper technician in Montreal and now a Finnish lieutenant. He insisted that I view the hospital arrangements, which he insisted were "better than anything in France."

On the way out from Abo, I encountered the most unusual experience I have witnessed in an air raid anywhere. We were taking coffee in a farmhouse when the telephone rang to warn of an approaching raid. Instantly, from all the neighboring farms came women and old men carrying babies, while older children had their arms filled with food supplies.

They knew what they were doing, for nearby Ekenas had been raided almost daily for the last 45 days. On the 14th of January, the residents counted 220 planes, including 14 big bombers, and a total of 154 bombs was dropped.

So when these farmer-folk and evacuees fled into the pine forest, each one knew his job in a tiny tree-shrouded clearing they had prepared for themselves. A log-fire was built to make the oldsters comfortable, while an 84-year-old patriarch took his "throne-like" place atop a hand-pushed sled.

The children, like children the world over, played in the clearing, while one little baby, frightened by my balaclava helmet, burst into

F. B. I. AND WEST COAST OFFICERS HUNT YOUTH, 16

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25 — Believing his son Arnold, 16, has been kidnapped, Avon D. Hutzen, Los Angeles chef, declared today he was willing to pay $10,000 in ransom supposedly demanded by the kidnapers.

Hutzen said his son vanished December 5 and the same night the father received a telephone call from a man who, reciting the numbers of the missing boy's watch, instructed Hutzen to meet him.

Accompanied by a police officer, Hutzen went to the designated spot, but no one appeared although a "suspicious" looking car drove by several times without stopping.

Two days later, according to the father's story, he received a letter demanding $10,000 and asking why he had gone to the meeting point with another person.

On January 11, Hutzen said, he received a letter ordering him, under threat of death to himself, his wife and his son, to take $10,000 to the lobby of a Long Beach Hotel last Tuesday night. No one met him at the hotel, he said.

Both Los Angeles police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are working on the case, but no trace of the missing boy has been found.

WADSWORTH HEADS DRIVE FOR PUBLISHER GANNETT

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 25—Congressman James M. Wadsworth's acceptance of the national chairmanship of Frank E. Gannett's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination was regarded today by political advisers of the New York publisher as bringing added strength to his drive.

Gannett praised Wadsworth for his service in congress and his fight against the Roosevelt administration.

STOLEN CAR SKIDS INTO TREE; TWO MEN KILLED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25—

Two unidentified men, both about 25 years of age, were killed today when a high-powered stolen sedan in which they were riding skidded on an ice-coated paving and crashed into a tree in nearby Bensalem Township.

Through the license plates on the automobile, police identified the vehicle as one stolen in North Philadelphia yesterday.

tears and set off a chorus of other cries.

It was snowing and the temperature was 32 degrees below zero. But to comfort the five weeks old child, his mother put him to her breast.

Suddenly, the almost inaudible high-pitched beat of multi-motored bombing planes was heard by a sharp-eared old farm wife.

J. A. Hagstrom, the burgomaster of Ekenas, whose wife and newborn baby had been evacuated to the nearby farm of his father-in-law, Karl Ahlgren, a former Philadelphia ironmaker, took command.

Hagstrom, the youngest mayor in Finland, calmly gave the orders that if the bombers came closer, all should spread out concentrically, adolescents furthest, then old men, then women, the baby children remaining by the fireside.

Dogs Watched
The Finns always watch their dogs to see how close the planes are coming. One dog cocked his ears and a woman said:

"I think they will be here soon." I asked her if her little boy was warm enough.

"He's three years old and he's a Finn," she replied. "He'll be warm."

of our investigation."

A number of well-known Communist leaders have been indicted since the federal drive against espionage, sabotage and related illegal activities opened. Among these was Earl Browder, party leader in this country, convicted in New York Tuesday for passport irregularities. Browder's brother, William, testified before the grand jury here.

"We could indict these so-called big names anytime we wanted to," O'Donnell asserted.

Among other disclosures made by the youthful former Chicago lawyer were:

1. Agents of at least one major nation, other than Russia, are under investigation by the grand jury. He would not identify the nation.

2. The daily publication (he withheld the name) of a large subversive group in this country is being investigated by the department. Certain officials of the publication are believed to be using fictitious names in making required legal reports.

3. The headquarters of another allegedly foreign-sponsored group has been moved into a country bordering the United States so that, according to O'Donnell, "we can't catch sight of any of them to shoot at." (He also did not disclose the name of this group).

that work is now under way on one 40,000-ton German battleship and another 45,000-ton vessel. The larger vessel probably will be the flagship of the German fleet and, it is understood, will be named the Friedrich Der Grosse.

The 35,000-ton craft to be named the Deutschland was first officially listed under the identification letter "H," according to reliable indications, the Reich's two other 35,000-ton battleships, the Bismarck and Tirpitz, are now nearly ready for active service.

Their machinery, armor and all their guns have been fitted with remarkable speed for such ships, and it is expected they along with the new Deutschland will be participating in the German campaign at sea in the relatively near future.

Meanwhile, the 10,005-ton cruisers Prince Eugene and Seydlitz also will be commissioned soon along with a number of destroyers and other naval units.

FATHER OF SIX CRUSHED

DAYTON, Jan. 25—William Beilharz, 45, relief worker and father of six children, was crushed to death when he fell into the path of a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train while unloading a coal car on a siding.

Bowling Green reported an official temperature of two above.

Ice gorges mounted in the Ohio River below Cincinnati. The jam was reported to be 40 miles long. U. S. Army Engineers hoped for a normal thaw which would allow the river to clear itself without causing much damage.

SANDUSKY, Jan. 25 — Snow-drifts piled seven feet high by a 30-mile-per-hour wind early today caused the closing of the Sandusky bay bridge.

Gerald Griswold, bridge manager, announced the bridge was closed shortly after midnight when it was found impossible to keep the roadway open with four snow plows. Traffic was re-routed through Fremont.

GERMANS FEEL
PINCH OF BRIT
SEA BLOCKADE

Hitler's Recent Statement
That Nazis Must Export
Or Die Recalled

GOERING GRANTS POINT

Trade Brought To Complete
Impasse During Warfare,
Herman Confesses

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Germany must export or die," Herr Hitler proclaimed to the Reichstag early in 1939.

By the Fuehrer's own words
Germany will indeed die claim the Allies, unless she can find some way to pierce and overthrow the relentless blockade by the French and English.

Hemmed in from overseas countries by a mighty fleet which prevents German trade with overseas neutrals, Germany is already feeling the strain, according to British claims.

Goering's own newspaper has declared after three months of war, "We must face facts. As in 1914-18 England's power has brought German overseas trade to a complete standstill."

"German ships are lying in more than a hundred harbors all over the globe blockaded by the British navy."

"Furthermore an enormous quantity of goods ready for shipment . . . is piled up in all the large German ports."

Trade Hit Heavily

According to the last available list of German exports, the blockade together with the loss of trade with the British Empire, is causing her a loss of 45 percent of her total foreign trade. This includes one third of her markets for coal and coke, textile goods, iron and steel, machinery vehicles and one half her markets for paper, chemicals and machine tools.

These markets, which are claimed by British experts to be irreplaceable, will have the effect of greatly diminishing Germany's access to urgently-needed foreign currency, used to buy essential goods.

British and French economists claim that at the same time, Germany cannot be satisfied in her demand for essential materials by accessible countries, even if she receives their total exports. Cut off from her main supplies by the blockade Germany will not be able to stand the strain, they assert.

Comparison with 1937

According to the London Financial News Germany took 9 percent of the world's exports in 1937.
Three-quarters of this came from the Dutch West and East Indies,
the United States and Rumania.
Supplies from the first three have now been virtually stopped by the British.

The economists claim that gasoline and oil, vitally needed by Germany to carry out any full-scale war, are insufficient for her needs.

Germany's peace time consumption is from five to seven million tons a year, they assert. Wartime needs would total at least twenty million tons a year and yet the total oil exports of Rumania and Russia would not cover Germany's peacetime needs.

According to a claim made by a ministry of Economic Warfare official to International News Service, Germany had used up her initial oil and petrol stocks by the end of the Polish campaign.

Similar claims of the inaccessibility to Germany of materials are made regarding iron ore, copper, rubber, oil seeds, animal and vegetable fats, and textiles. In some cases, such as rubber, fats, whole oil, coffee, cocoa and tea, it is stated that supplies are almost insignificant.

Foreign Currency Problem

And these assertions do not take into account any difficulties Germany may have with regard to her foreign currency holdings and gold reserve.

Claims that Russia can make up a number of deficiencies in German trade are vigorously denied by the British and French press.

Meanwhile the British press hails the new British ban on German exports as a death blow to Germany and strenuously urges the British Government to capture the markets in the Balkans and Scandinavian countries.

Pointing out that unless Britain
"beats Germany to the draw" and captures trade in the European neutral countries, Germany will be able to exist for a much longer

Ever Stop To Think
What Life Would Be Without A Memory?

Here is One Young Man, Relieved to Find
He Is Not a Criminal, Who "Awakened" to Life on December 14

His memory completely gone, this young man, under treatment at Middletown, O., is simply known as "Butch." A snapshot of the unidentified girl, inset, was found in his pocket.

MIDDLETOWN, O., Jan. 25.—
Imagine, if one day you were sitting in a restaurant and suddenly you would see before you a sandwich, a piece of pie and a cup of coffee and realize at that moment for the first time that you were alive.

What had happened before the sandwich, piece of pie and cup of coffee had arrived would be the deepest, most impenetrable mystery of your groping mind. "Who am I? Where am I? What's happened? Have I a mother — a father— or perhaps, a wife, baby
— or babies?"

If you can perceive in the slightest this sensation of being lost, lost irrevocably, then you can appreciate a bit the plight of one
"Butch," a young man who wandered into the police station at Middletown early the morning of December 17.

Life Began Dec. 14

"Butch" was sick, cold, nearly penniless and totally without memory, except for that strange awakening on December 14 in a Portland, Ind., restaurant where he saw the sandwich, piece of pie and cup of coffee in front of him.

After police had grilled him for hours, finger-printed and mugged him, he was taken to Middletown hospital. After a few days treatment and an examination of an injury back of his right ear,
"Butch" was physically well again.
The nurses, weary of the formality of calling him "Mr. X" shortened it to Butch.

Then Butch's real problem began. It was to find himself. Hundreds of persons, seeing his picture in newspapers, came to view him. Scores plagued him with questions and made him re-tell his life story — dating from December 14 and the only days he knows of living.

In that short space, Butch had crowded a lot of "new" knowledge and facts. He has found out there is a war; he has studied road maps to trace his own steps from Portland to Toledo, O., then to Cincinnati and finally, after a bitterly cold walk of 25 miles to Middletown. He has found friends in Middletown. They have given him clothes, cigars, money—but no clues as to his identity which he wants ever so much more.

Several doctors are studying the case and seeking to classify the youth's particular form of amnesia. A hypnotist, who called at the city hall where Butch was detained for safekeeping, put him in a hypnotic sleep and slyly suggested that he write his name and address. With eyes shut fast and his head rolling groggily, the victim scrawled "Butch" and wrote
Portland, Ind., for his address.

One of the most baffling features of the case is a little four-fora-dime photograph of a pretty girl found in Butch's pocket. Butch says, as much as he would like to remember who she is, her face carries no meaning for him. And he's sorry about that.

Beside the little cracked photo, Butch had only a few cents in his pocket, a wristwatch on his arm, a lighter he has since lost (but which the Middletown Eagles lodge replaced with a new one).
He was bareheaded and wore only a leather jacket over a light sweater.

Butch heaved a sigh of relief when the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported they had no record of his fingerprints or of his face in rogue's gallery. "That's something; I'm not a criminal.
Perhaps I'm really a respectable fellow," was his comment on the F. B. I.'s report.

Butch is believed in his late 20's or early 30's; is five feet, eight inches tall; weighs 150 pounds;
has chestnut hair.

Do you know who he might be?

HERBERT MARSHALL

One of the most touching love stories ever presented by the Radio Theatre is "Intermezzo" featuring Herbert Marshall, Ingrid Bergman, and Gail Patrick on Monday, January 29. The broadcast takes place at 9 p. m. over the Columbia network with Cecil
B. DeMille as producer.

"Intermezzo" is from an original story by Gosta Stevens and Gustav Molander which concerns the plight of Holger Brandt, a noted violinist who has just finished a triumphal American concert tour and returned to his native Sweden. Herbert Marshall is Brandt with Gail Patrick playing the part of his wife, Margit.

Margit is delighted to have him back as are his children, Eric, and little Ann Marie who adores her musical father. Holger wants Mar-git to go with him on his next trip to help him recapture the carefree life of their early married life, but she must stay with the children.

Anita Hoffman, enacted by Ingrid Bergman, the new movie discovery who created the same part in the successful motion picture, plays the piano before Holger so well that he is entranced. They fall in love and complications follow which lead up to a rare dramatic impact.

NEW TYPE QUIZ SHOW

"Beat the Band," a new audience participation show featuring Ted Weems and his boys as a musical board of experts, makes its bow
Sunday afternoon, January 28,
at 6:30, on a coast to coast NBC-Red network.

Listeners send in questions suggesting a song title and a musician must answer by playing the song on his instrument. Here's an example: "How would you get in solid with your teacher?" And the song-title answer "An Apple For The Teacher." Or "Where do bank robbers end up?" "South of the Border." Garry Moore asks the questions and Maestro Weems selects the bandman who thinks he has the answer. Ten dollars is awarded for all questions used on the program, with an additional ten dollars for questions stumping the band.

Feature numbers by the band will divide the quizzing into three sections, allowing time for about fifteen questions during the half hour program.

Emcee Garry Moore was more recently known as Garry Morfit of Club Matinee fame. Featured with Weems will be vocalists Marva Maxwell and Perry Como, the whistling troubadour Elmo Tanner, and comedian "Red" Ingle.

STOP ME IF YOU'VE HEARD

With Jack Dempsey as guest gagbuster, Milton Berle's Stop Me
If You've Heard This One will originate in Miami, Fla., Saturday, January 27, 8:30 p. m. NBC-Red,
with Barry Stewart's orchestra.

BRIEF RADIO NOTES

"Tip-Off to Murder," is the exciting title of the "Johnny Presents" dramatization by Max Mar-cin over CBS Friday, January 26 at 9 p. m. Musical numbers by Johnny Green and his orchestra embrace "Smarty Pants" with a piano solo by Green; "Valse Huguette" and "Confucius Say." Vocals will be by the Swing Fourteen harmonizing "Do I Love You?" and Floyd Sherman singing "My Prayer." Johnny the Call Boy is master of ceremonies and Jack Johnstone directs.

Ben Grauer, announcer on the George Jessel "Celebrity Program" and on the Kay Kyser "College of Musical Knowledge" when the latter program is heard from New York, becomes a master of ceremonies in his own right when he opens on the new "What Would You Have Done?" quiz show which debuts over the NBC-Blue network Friday, January 26 at 9:30 p. m. The series is written by Edith Meiser, who pens the "Sherlock Holmes" stories. Grauer takes the place of Ed Herlihy, originally announced as emcee.

One of the most baffling mystery yarns ever conceived by Sir Conan Doyle for his "Sherlock Holmes" series is "The Adventure of Abbie Grange" which serves as the vehicle on radio's "Sherlock Holmes" program over the NBC-Blue network Monday, February 5.
The story tells of the murder of the most hated man in the neighborhood. Basil Rathbone takes the title role and is supported by Nigel Bruce as his aide, Dr. Watson.
The script is adapted for the microphone by Edith Meiser.

WHY BRITISH WILL WIN

LONDON. — Latest reason why
Britain and France will defeat
Germany was given by a small London evacuee. Britain is the Motherland, she explained, and Germany the Fatherland. "While Father shouts and roars when something doesn't suit him, he always has to give in to Mother in the end," she said.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

After two years of work by some two hundred artists and the expenditure of more money than it is good taste to mention, "Gulli-ver's Travels," Max Fleischer's full-length animated cartoon in Technicolor reaches the screen!
Scheduled for next Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre, "Gulliver" is the first picture of this kind to be produced since Walt Disney's "Snow White" of two seasons ago and the first ever to issue from Para-mount's studios.

"Gulliver's Travels" comes from Jonathan Swift's immortal classic of the same name which, since its first appearance two centuries ago, has been read by countless millions of children and adults alike and been translated into virtually every language on earth.
As translated onto celluloid by

Fleischer, the Swift story deviates from the original only in the slightest degree. Like the book, it plots the amazing adventures of the English seaman whom an ocean storm shipwrecked on a faraway island of miniature people, tiny buildings and minuscule vegetation.
All the main characters in the picture—with one notable exception
—are the unique, lovable creatures
Dean Swift drew, and the situations come directly from his unforgettable tale.

ALBANY, Ore.—An undelivered war-time note bearing the signature of Mary Travis of Philadelphia and addressed to "my soldier sweetheart" was found in the storage room of the Albany armory. The note was dated January 9, 1917, and it was apparently one of the thousands written by teen age girls during the World War to "unknown sweethearts" at the front.

WRONGED RUSSIA
WE used to think there was some intelligence in Russia, and even a sense of humor. But we're being sadly disillusioned. This comment is based on one of the most incredible utterances of all time.

It came from Moscow the other day, and the message was given by a woman radio announcer speaking in Finnish. She spoke indignantly of the battle of Suomusalmi, in which the Finns, operating with inferior numbers, by sheer courage and intelligence destroyed two Russian divisions and took great quantities of arms and supplies, and drove the survivors from Finnish soil.

"On this occasion," the Russian spokeswoman declared indignantly, "the Finns stole the weapons from the Russians. If those weapons are not returned to their rightful owners, war will be declared on Finland."

Evidently that was not meant as a joke at all, but was said in perfect seriousness. And now the Russian government might make good by a formal declaration of war, technically based on the fact that impudent Finnish troops took the invaders' weapons from them.

Well, that would be about as rational as anything else the Stalin government has done lately.

TRAINED WORKERS
A LARGE manufacturing company which has been having trouble finding enough skilled production machine operators has opened its own school to train future employees. Learners spend two hours a week in class room work and 38 hours a week on machines with veteran operations as instructors. They are paid fifty cents an hour while training. When they become qualified operators they receive the regular pay of such employees.

Young men going into this class must have a technical high school education or its equivalent, some shop experience and knowledge of blueprint reading, shop mathematics and use of measuring instruments. They are selected by special examinations.

This looks like an intelligent program. The company needs the trained workers and there are plenty of boys who need the jobs and are competent to master the skills required. There should be more such training provided by the public high schools and by industries needing such workers. The shop training should not be given at the expense of a sound educational foundation, but should supplement it.

In preparation for special jobs lies part of the solution of the unemployment problem.

Stalin and Molotov better go away back and sit down to think it over.

Up after a grand night of sleep, and wondering whether reading a long treatise on equine encephalomyelitis (horse sleeping sickness to you—and to me as well) had anything to do with it. The disease apparently spread over the land like wildfire, but was stopped in 1939.
Did recall an incident of long years ago when I was a freshman in high school. During the noon hours I loafed in a gun store where a particular friend of mine worked. The distance home for lunch was too far—or I thought it was, so I ate down town. One noon I noticed a horse hitched across the street, and the animal was dozing peacefully with head hung low. An air gun borrowed for a few moments made that old animal a prancing steed, but soon he fell asleep again. Again he was being hit by a bee shot and put on a jitterbug show. The next day the horse was back again and the air gun was borrowed

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

BORAH'S FATAL STROKE

WASHINGTON—It was a stroke, not a fall, that caused the death of Senator Borah. He was stricken only a few hours after he had been assured he was in excellent health.

The tragic details of the great Idahoan's end are as follows:

Following his serious illness last summer, Borah was very careful about himself, and on Monday, January 15, he underwent a physical examination. Around 4 p. m. he telephoned Mrs. Borah (affectionately known as "Little Borah") in high spirits.

"Mary," he said jubilantly, "the doctor tells me that I'm in the best condition I've been in for several years."

Borah then spent an hour or so in his office dictating and reading. Then he drove home, where he ate a light supper, and after running through several newspapers, retired about 9 o'clock. He rose at eight the next morning, his usual hour, and appeared to be in good health, inquiring cheerfully of Mrs. Borah how she had slept.

Mrs. Borah heard him turn on the water in the shower. Ten minutes later she heard it still running and went to the door, which was closed, and knocked. There was no answer. She waited a few moments and then knocked again. No answer. Then she tried to open the door, but couldn't.

Frightened, she called the maid and together they were able to open the door. The reason Mrs. Borah had been unable to push it open was because the Senator had fallen against it.

It was this that gave rise to the report that he had fallen and injured himself. But when Dr. Worth Daniels arrived, he immediately diagnosed the case as a cerebral hemorrhage. Borah never regained consciousness. Several prominent consultants were called in Tuesday afternoon, but they shook their heads.

It was after their visit that Mrs. Borah courageously allowed the press to be informed that her husband was dying.

NO PLANS

Mrs. Borah's plans for the future are still uncertain—except for one thing.

She has definitely decided to give up the spacious, beautifully furnished apartment in which she and the Senator lived for many years. It was their only home. They had none in Idaho. When they returned there in the summer they lived in a Boise hotel.

The Senator leaves a small estate which, with the $10,000 which widows of members of Congress receive, will enable Mrs. Borah to live comfortably. Borah could have made big money, but he always refused. He had many offers of legal cases; and a few years ago he was handed a contract by a newspaper syndicate for $52,000 to write a weekly, 1200-word article. But he rigidly adhered to the rule that he was an employee of the people and they were entitled to his full time.

Borah was so meticulous about this that when, during his fourth term, Congress increased senatorial pay from $7,500 to $10,000 a year, he refused to accept the additional $2,500 until re-elected.

Mrs. Borah has a sister in Moscow, Idaho, and another in Portland, Ore. She will visit them before deciding where she will settle permanently. In the past, she

Solving the Puzzle of Fever in Babies

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
What is the danger of fever in a new-born baby?

It has always been considered to be perfectly normal for a baby to have an increase of temperature the first, second or third day after birth. This has been ascribed to the dehydration of the first few hours of life after the mother's blood support is suddenly cut off, or to toxic substances in the mother's milk. All this was taken more or less as a matter of course, but the observations of Taddei, at the Children's Hospital at Pisa, Italy, have placed the thing on a more exact basis.

The temperature of the infant is always different from that of the mother. Strangely enough, the temperature of twins is always different. During the first few hours of life the temperature diminishes, but in the course of the first day it rises and may continue high until the seventh or eighth day of life. No relationship was found between this rise and early breast feeding or, in fact, any other feeding factor. The only sensible conclusion is that different babies have different liabilities of regulation of bodily temperature.

Winter's Relation to Mastoid Disease

Does infection of the ear and resulting mastoid disease have any relation to weather?

Yes. The incidence of mastoid disease follows the general curve of the incidence of the common cold. In a Chicago hospital for children a chart was made of the frequency of mastoid operations in relation to temperature and weather change. It was found that change is more important than temperature itself. Middle ear infection and mastoid infection in children are precipitated in the wake of fall in atmospheric temperature—cold

THE CHARACTERS:
ROMANY HALLE, who wants to be a radio star.
CHOLLY O'NEIL, her pal, who plays in a music store.
BRENT NELSON, successful young announcer.
MYRA NOYES, famous radio star, engaged to Brent.
TERRY O'ROURKE, who has a weakness for Cholly and for liquor.
BAXTER TREE, a continuity writer without a job.
YESTERDAY: Finding that Dover likes Cholly very much, Romany encourages the friendship.

CHAPTER TWELVE

CHOLLY WAS on duty at Leo Dane's playing the piano the next afternoon. She dreaded going, for fear she would meet Terry. There might be a scene if he had been to the Beer Barrel. She was relieved when the afternoon wore on and he did not show up.

Baxter Tree called on Romany, telling her he did so in passing. But she could see there was something on his mind.

"Now," she smiled after greeting him, "I have someone to go swimming with."

"I'd have brought my bathing suit if I'd known you'd be here."

"Aunt Cissie keeps a guest supply on hand." She got up. "You can dress in the guest bathroom."

It was a stifling late August day. After a swim they sat in the sand on an Indian blanket.

"Any news of the recordings?"

Romany asked then, putting on her sun glasses. "Did the powers that be like them?"

"Nope," Bax admitted glumly. "Lane says they weren't so hot."

Cromwell said they wouldn't do at all. He doesn't blame it on Delacarte's direction and re-write job, however. Lane says they'll have to be out over again."

"Oh," Romany said sympathetically. "I'm so sorry. They'll do them over right away, of course."

"Lord knows," Bax's jaw was set. "I dropped in to see Bob Lane today and he was very vague. Said the boss was raising hell about so many records being cut, now that Afra has forced them to pay for rehearsals and recording time."

Romany, sensing the writer's keen disappointment, ached to comfort him.

"They'll do them again soon, I'm sure," she said again lamely.

"Someone will see the beauty of them one of these days. And when they do, nothing can stop you, Bax. You'll make radio history."

"Thanks," he smiled crookedly, stretching out on his back for a sun bath. "Too bad you're not a sponsor."

Romany stretched out beside him, lying on her stomach.

"By the way," she asked, anxious to change the subject, "have you seen anything of Terry?"

"Yeah," Bax nodded shortly. "I'm afraid I did."

"Where?"

"When I dropped into the Beer Barrel last evening looking for a fellow who has some of my scripts he's been studying as samples. Terry didn't see me, though."

"Blotted out completely, I suppose. He and Cholly had a big row. I thought he'd go crazy again."

Bax turned toward her, lighting a cigarette.

"Too bad. I hate to see a guy with a voice like his throwing it away. And what a football player he was! I guess that sort of went to his head, too. Maybe he'll straighten out."

"If he won't snap out of it for Cholly," Romany said, "I'm afraid there isn't any hope for him. He pretends to love her so much. They fought because she wouldn't marry him right away. He said if she would he'd reform."

"I imagine you could just about break up anybody's romance," Bax offered.

Bax shook his head.

"I wouldn't like to see Cholly marry Terry. Not now, anyway. He's too dependable. She deserves a better break. Someone who'd help her take care of her mother and brothers and sisters."

"On that point we certainly agree," Romany assured him. "I took Cholly out on a double date last night. I'd give anything I've got to break up her and Terry!"

Bax raised on an elbow.

"You might try taking him away from her," he smiled. "I imagine you could just about break up anybody's romance if you made up your mind."

"Don't flatter me!" Romany denied she had any such charm.

But it was an idea. If Terry would show an interest in another girl, Cholly's pride would certainly cause her to break their engagement at once. And nothing would ever make her change her mind.

Bax wanted to hear more about the double date. He grinned whimsically.

"Did you say something about a double date last night? I suppose you were getting yourself in the gossip columns again."

When Romany told him she and Cholly had been on the Hayworth yacht with the syrup heir and Brent Nelson he raised his brows.

"Well, now that puts you practically in the Blue Book. You won't be speaking to the likes of me very long."

"You're still my favorite author," Romany's green eyes laughed at him. "That reminds me. Did you bring some scripts?"

"I did. The first four scripts of 'Paradise'."

"I want to read Sylvia," Romany decided. "Let's go up and read the ice box. Then you can coach me."

It was Romany's chance to help Bax save the price of a dinner. And she was afraid he'd ask her out and waste a couple of dollars. She zipped into one of Aunt Cissie's taffeta housecoats while Baxter took a shower and changed back into his street clothes in the guest bathroom.

When he joined her at a little table in the kitchen there was cold fried chicken, lettuce and tomato salad and a variety of cheeses and odds and ends. Coffee perked on the stove. Bax ate with relish, and Romany had the uncomfortable feeling that perhaps he hadn't eaten his lunch.

Afterward in the living room, Bax read the part of the lawyer of "Paradise," while Romany read Sylvia. It was amazing, Bax thought, how quickly she had caught on to the things he had told her the day of her audition.

"You ARE Sylvia," he said when she had finished. "I'll never be satisfied with this date will be psychic and emotional. A somewhat stubborn, erratic, restless and self-willed nature will, however, call for wise upbringing on the part of guardians. Such a personality will, in the main, be successful in life, it is indicated."

Helen Hayes Voices Her Plea for Boys and Girls

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—We in NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—We in show business have a deep respect for the good trouper—the man or woman who does his job and does it well, no matter what the obstacles. We are accustomed to think of the good trouper as a member of the theatrical profession, of course. But some of the best troupers in the world are the boys and girls who have been stricken with Infantile Paralysis. They must achieve a technique with which to play the role of a normal human being in life!

Any of us who has struggled to achieve a goal, who has suffered and endured privation, and been victorious over disappointment and discouragement, understands what it is like to fight against odds. But what terrific odds a youngster has to fight to arrive at the point where most of us begin!

An actor rehearses one line over and over again, until he has the exact intonation that conveys the thought. But a paralyzed child must rehearse, over and over again, the act of moving one muscle until, after months or years, it obeys his will.

When a play is produced the public cannot possibly realize what painstaking effort went into every word and gesture which seem to flow so naturally in a finished performance. So with the rehabilitated Infantile Paralysis victim. We cannot know what power of will, what religious perseverance went into the restoration of the simple ability to move his arms and legs. He himself must do the work, prepare himself for the part fate has thrust upon him. But he can be given the opportunity to be a good trouper.

The current campaign of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday is an effort to give them all a chance—all the victims, young and old—of Infantile Paralysis. By means of the money raised all over the country, the stage is set, the scenery painted, the "props" provided for the play of life to go on.

The funds collected will be used to track down the unknown virus of Infantile Paralysis; to buy splints and braces and crutches; to provide hospitalization and nursing care, iron lungs, therapeutic pools; to give special occupational instruction to boys and girls who are rehearsing for the future. Without these things the Infantile Paralysis sufferer is a singer without music, an actor without lines.

The history of the theatre is crowded with romantic figures who have upheld the tradition that the play must go on. How much more dramatic it is for a child who perhaps is unable to walk, to carry on — with a crutch — braving a world that is difficult, even when one is strong and healthy.

Let us applaud these good troupers. Let us give them every encouragement, every help. Let us—all of us—be backers of their show. With our dimes and quarters and dollars we may help them turn their lives into smashing hits.

NESTELL SIGNS; WALKER WANTS WEEK TO DRILL

COLUMBUS, Jan. 25—Handlers of Jack "Buddy" Walker, promising Columbus negro heavyweight, today awaited an answer to their request that they be granted an additional week for a proposed Finnish Relief bout with Bob Nestell, of Los Angeles.

Officials of the Finn organization have signed Nestell for January 31 and offered that date to Walker yesterday. His handlers pointed out they would need at least two weeks in which to prepare for Nestell, one of the most dangerous hitters on the Pacific coast.

ROTARY LECTURER DISCUSSES WORLD CONFLICT, WARNS U. S. TO STAY OUT

CUTSHALL SAYS EXHAUSTION IS NATION'S FEAR

People Together In Space Must Be Together In Spirit, Also

TALK FIRST OF SERIES

Three War Causes Cited; Hatred, Enmity Of The Classes Scored

Terming himself as a "genetic historian", Dr. E. Guy Cutshall, educator and lecturer from Lincoln, Nebraska, who opened the series of four lectures of the Rotary Club's Institute for Better International Understanding at the Circleville High School Wednesday night, said that the best approach to the European difficulties of today is to study history, and he concluded that the only way peace is ever to come is that the nations must realize that "people who are together in space must be together in spirit."

Proving first that international non-aggression pacts and mutual assistance treaties are nothing new and that power politics was played by nations long before the time of Christ, Dr. Cutshall remarked that nations decay because they over-emphasize their basic principles.

Conquest Impossible
"No one has ever conquered Europe and no one ever will. Europe cannot be tied in a bag and placed on the shelf of passivity," he said explaining the impossibility of the conquest of Europe.

Though the passage of time has not altered the game of politics, it has changed some of the principles on which that game is played.

"England has for centuries claimed that it is not part of the European continent, but the Wright Brothers of Dayton, Ohio have changed that attitude," he continued illustrating the point of the special limitations and the impossibility of English isolation from European conflicts.

Citing William Penn's theory of war, he remarked, "There are three causes of war. Either a nation wants to grab something that doesn't belong to it; a nation wants to grab something that another nation has just grabbed; a nation which has grabbed something wants to keep the nation from which it has grabbed it from grabbing it back."

"Europe may be civilized, but it is not moralized and war in Europe will never cease until such time when it becomes moral," Dr. Cutshall remarked summing up the causes of European conflicts.

Discussing some of the obstacles to world peace, he spoke of the hatred and enmity not of the masses but of the classes. A basic difficulty that has caused this situation is the ruling governments which are not the governments representative of the people.

"Western civilization has never known Christ very much. Nations which have nine-tenths of the raw material can be very pious," he said.

Nation Warned
"Warning the United States to keep out of the European conflict, Dr. Cutshall cried, "One more venture into Europe as in 1917 and you give up one half the freedom that you have. Communism isn't the danger that this country faces, but rather exhaustion."

"A war for us in Europe is disastrous because the striking power of an army is inversely proportional to the square of the distance from the base. You only get a nickel's worth of crack for every dollar spent," he stated.

The peace program, as Dr. Cutshall saw it, consists of four elements, which when combined should bring world peace in 200 years.

(1) Wealth must be spread rather than concentrated; (2) Disorganization from Europe until she gets over her "martial fever"; (3) A strong Pan-American Union of the 21 American republics to illustrate to Europe that nations

Boggs Says Lime Supply Available To Farmers

Farmers who are unable to apply lime to their land because of insufficient funds may now purchase ground limestone under the Grant of Aid program of the AAA, John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway County AAA Committee, announced Thursday.

"This limestone will test 80 percent or more calcium carbonate and will be ground fine enough to pass through an eight-mash sieve," he said.

"In past years farmers have neglected this soil-building practice because they could not afford it," the chairman pointed out. "Under the 1940 AAA Farm Program, producers may request limestone without any advance, and the purchase price will be deducted from the regular AAA payment for the farm," he said.

Ground limestone will be furnished to farmers by one or more of the following methods:

(a) Ground limestone will be delivered and spread on the acreage to be limed on farms upon the request of the producer.

(b) Ground limestone will be delivered to the farm and unloaded at a convenient place.

(c) Ground limestone may be obtained at the quarry upon request of the producer.

(d) Ground limestone will be shipped to a local distributing point or railroad siding for pick-up by the producer when aggregate requests for ground limestone by producers total a "minimum" carload. Forty tons of ground limestone constitutes minimum carload.

The limestone obtained under the Grants of Aid Program must be applied to the land in 1940.

Prices for the limestone will vary by townships depending on method of handling and transportation facilities. "This program," the chairman declared, "will stimulate interest in the use of lime as a soil conserving practice."

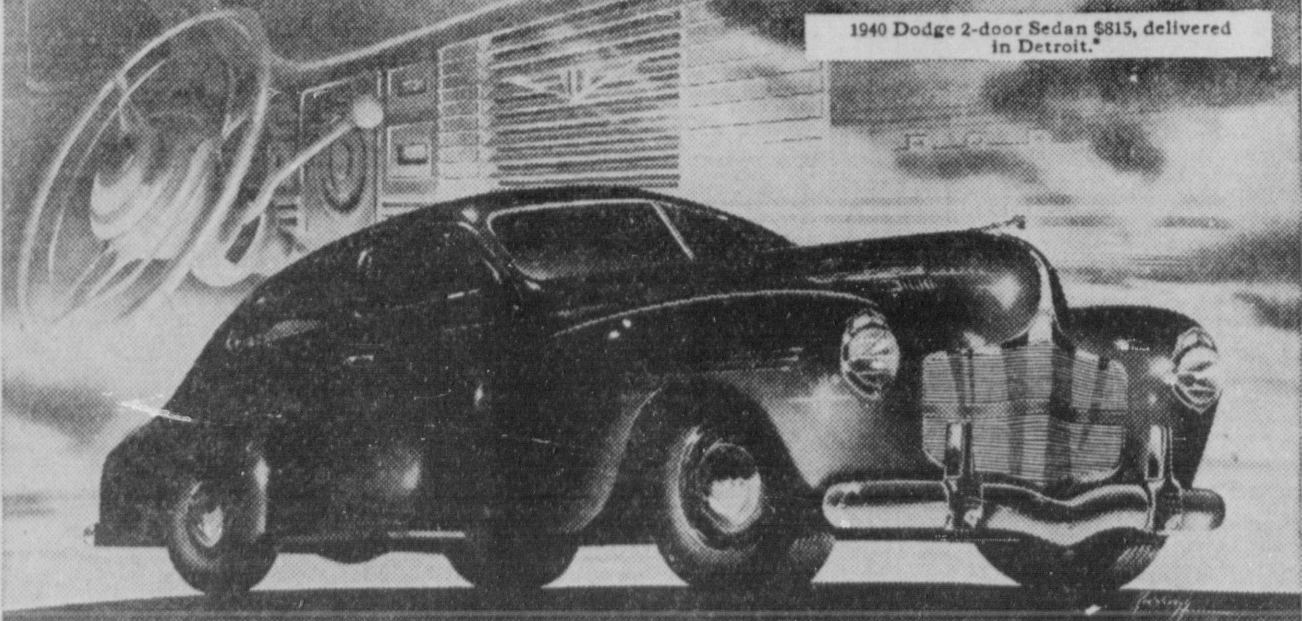

Farmers wishing to make purchases of limestone should make application to the county committee. Any cooperator in the AAA Farm Program is eligible and lime can be obtained as long as the cost does not exceed 70 percent of the estimated 1940 agricultural conservation payment.

ANNO DOMINO
Senator Henry Ashurst, courtly Arizona veteran and one of Borah's closest Senate friends, had a strange experience with him the day before he was stricken.

Ashurst's seat is directly across the aisle from Senator George Norris, who had been away for several weeks having a physical check-up at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. He returned to the Senate that day and Ashurst was greeting him just as Borah, who sat next to Norris, came in.

"Bill," said Ashurst, "I was just telling George how well he looks. He tells me the doctors didn't find a thing wrong with him."

"That's fine, George," smiled Borah, "It's good to have you back."

"George," continued Ashurst, "you didn't have to go to Baltimore to find out what's wrong with you. I could have told you. It's very simple. All us old timers have it. We're suffering from Anno Domino, that's all, just plain Anno Domino."

the initiative in building the hospitals, the localities must maintain them.

Surgeon General Thomas Parran tried to persuade him to recommend a certain amount of federal aid for upkeep. Parran proposed one dollar per day per patient. But Roosevelt rejected this.

"Nope, that's out," he told the Interdepartmental Health Program Committee headed by Miss Josephine Roche. "It's all right for the Government to build them, but the localities must operate them. We want to tie the localities directly up to these hospitals so that they will have a personal interest in them."

Note—Significantly, at the conclusion of the conference the President directed Miss Roche to continue work on formulating a national health-insurance program, even though there is no chance of passing anything of this nature at the present session of Congress.
